

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

It is proposed to divide a preferably stationary optical light guide into two regions by an annular slot into which an operating panel projects. The inner region is to be visible to a user and represents a corona, which has an illuminated night design. The outer region is covered by the panel and illuminates the scale that includes various symbols and surrounds the rotary knob.